

There is no waiting around with Self-Service Check-in

See how Self-Service Check-in saves you time

Whether you're travelling for business or leisure, British Airways Self-Service Check-in* has been designed to save you valuable time by enabling you to speed through the airport – so you'll have more time to work or relax.

Check in at the airport using Self-Service Check-in kiosks

When you arrive at the airport, head straight for one of the many Self-Service Check-in kiosks* located near the British Airways desks. They are quick and simple to use – just follow these four easy steps:

- Insert your Executive Club card, credit card (this is used for identification purposes only) or cardboard ATB ticket into the slot of the check-in kiosk
- When asked, confirm your booking using the touch-screen
- Select your preferred seat, using the interactive seating map
- The kiosk will then print your boarding pass.

If you have any baggage to check in, simply deposit it with a member of staff at the Fast Bag Drop⁺ and then proceed through security to the departure lounge or boarding gate.

So now that you've clicked that using British Airways Self-Service Check-in is the quick and easy way to speed through the airport, take the easier route next time you fly.

* BA has Self-Service Check-in kiosks at 39 locations on its network, please refer to ba.com for more information.

 Where a cardboard ATB ticket has been used, boarding information will be printed directly onto this.

+ Available at selected airports only.
